GEORGIA LEADERS MEET IN SAVANNAH

FORESTRY CONFERENCE TO DISCUSS MANY MATTERS OF IMPORTANCE TO STATE.

Atlanta, Ga., May 5.—One of the features of the coming Georgia Commercial Forestry conference to be held in Savannah on May 25 to 28, with a score of nationally known experts on the speaking program talking about various vital problems of practical forestry, will be a display of interest to all timber land owners, naval stores operators and buyers of the products of the forest—from soap and paint to furniture and paper pulp.

The exhibits of wide range showing forest replanting, forest protection, forest conservation, the bad and the good ways of boxing pines, paper rosin and spirits, the vast variety of the wood possibilities of the section and many other valuable showings will be in charge of Charles A. White, editor of literature for the Georgia Forestry Society. Mr. White, according to an announcement made here, has completed arrangements with one of Savannah's leading hotels for space in the corridors and halls to place the exhibit where every delegate to the conference can see them all with the expenditure of half a dozen steps.

The Savannah conference is sponsored by the Savannah Chamber of Commerce and the Georgia Forestry Association with the assistance of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Guy T. Woolford, of Atlanta, who is president of the Georgia Forestry Association, is chairman of the general committee for the conference, which is composed of forty-three prominent Georgians. The Atlanta members of the committee are B. S. Barker, William Candler, L. P. Dickie, C. B. Harmon, Francis E. Kemper, B. M. Luffbrow, Dr. Poole Maynard, Haynes McPeck, J. E. Otley and C. A. Whittle. H. L. Kayton, of Savannah, is chairman of the executive committee, which has arranged the details of the program.

WEEVIL SURVIVAL NOT MADE PUBLIC

U. S. BUREAU ABANDONS RECORDS HERETOFORE PUBLISHED FOR FARMERS.

Athens, Ga., May 5.—The U. S. Bureau of Entomology has discontinued the reports giving indications on the number of weevils surviving the winter. Therefore this year the cotton farmer is without official information as to what the early infestation is likely to be. Already weevils have been seen flying about in many sections of South Georgia. Up to now no weevils have been seen in the northern half of the state.

It appears that South Georgia will have a fairly heavy early infestation, whereas in North Georgia there may not be many weevils until middle of the summer.

A sharp look out should be kept for weevils and if they appear before squares form the cotton should be given two moppings with a sweetened poison mixture. The mixture most commonly used is a 1-1-1 mixture. That is one part or one pound of calcium arsenate, one gallon of black molasses, and one gallon of water. First mix the calcium arsenate with water and then add the molasses, stirring the mixture thoroughly. The molasses mixture should be used within 48 hours after mixing and preferably within 24 hours. If the mixture is allowed to stand longer it has a tendency to burn the tender cotton leaves.

The molasses mixture may be applied with a home made mop made by tying strips of burlap to the end of a stick. Care should be taken to keep the calcium arsenate in suspension by stirring the mixture before and while it is being used.

The syrup mixture is cheap and easy to apply. From one to two gallons per acre will be sufficient for each application. If a good job of early poisoning is done a profitable crop of cotton can be made without the use of additional poison. However, late applications of poison are often profitable after the cotton has reached.

PRESENTMENTS OF APRIL GRAND JURY

MAKES SUGGESTIONS AS TO PATTERS AND MANY OTHER MATTERS OF INTEREST.

We, the grand jury chosen and sworn for the April term, 1930, of the Bulloch superior court, wish to submit the following report:

It appears to us that there is a vacancy in the board of education of said county, caused by the expiration of the term of office of M. M. Rushing, it is ordered that the said M. M. Rushing, a citizen who is eligible to said board of education to succeed himself, and it is ordered that the clerk of this court enter this order on the minutes and transmit a certified copy thereof to the state school commissioner that a commission may be issued as provided by law.

With reference to paupers, we recommend as follows:

That George Lee (col.) be paid $3.00 per month, to be paid to I. T. Crumley.

That Mrs. Daisy Howard be reduced to $2.50 per month.

That Nettie Horn be increased to $4.00 per month.

That Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bunch be paid $5.00 per month jointly, to be paid to Mallie Denmark.

That Mrs. Lizzie Waters be paid $12.50 per month, to be paid to Mrs. W. H. DeLoach.

That Jack McCoy be paid $2.50 per month, to be paid to G. C. Temple.

That Mrs. Daniel Kirkland be paid $3.00 per month, to be paid to C. C. Daugherty.

J. E. McCroan, Arthur Howard and Ira S. Perkins were appointed a committee to examine the books of the various justices of the peace of the county. Copy of their report is attached and made a part of the minutes.

T. F. Lee, A. D. Davis and B. F. Porter were appointed a committee to inspect and inventory the county chancery property and report to the October 1930 term of court.

We attach a report of the committee appointed at the October, 1929, grand jury, regarding the convict camp and chancery property.

The annual audit of the county board of education was submitted, and the figures showed that this department is conducted in respect to the audit.

The annual audit of our county was examined by us in detail and it is the opinion of our body that the financial affairs are being handled in a most creditable manner. We attach a comparative statement of our county as of December 31, 1929, and December 31, 1928, which we suggest be published and made a part of our proceedings.

It is the sense of this body that the present registration list is obsolete and we recommend that a new registration be called for all qualified voters.

We suggest that this report be published.

NOTED ARSON CASE IS NEARING CLOSE

CONVICTION OF ONE AND A PLEA OF GUILTY BY ANOTHER IN RECENT COURT.

Two of the four noted arson cases from the Bay district came to a head in superior court Monday, when the conviction of one and a plea of guilty by another in recent court.

Two other principles in the famous case, Monty Lanier and Millard Jones, previously convicted, began a month ago doing time on their sentences in the state penitentiary and were assigned to Chatham county. Both Adkus and Gordon had previously been given two-year sentences but appealed their cases. Gordon, therefore, received an additional year at the hands of the last jury. In both cases the sentence was deferred until Monday, June 10, when it was known Monday that he would not impose upon Adkus a longer sentence than the jury had given Gordon.

The case for which the four young men named are now in the toils began on May 4th of last year when five houses were burned down during a Saturday night's lark. Four of these were residences and one an old store building. Three of the buildings belonged to Walter and Charlie Roach, who live in Savannah.

Messrs. Anderson & Jones represented the defendants and Deal & Roach were employed by the Roach brothers to assist in the prosecution. Adkus and Monty Lanier are brothers, sons of the widow Clay Lanier; Gordon Lanier is their cousin, a son of John R. Lanier. Millard Jones is a cousin of Walter and Charlie Roach, who live in Savannah.

COUNTY SCHOOLS STAGE PAGEANT

MORE THAN THOUSAND CHILDREN OF BULLOCH COUNTY PARADE STREETS HERE.

More than a thousand children from the schools of Bulloch county paraded the streets of Statesboro Saturday afternoon in a health pageant promoted by the county health nurse.

No incident marred the entire occasion except the intense heat of the afternoon. It was the first real summer day, and, unused to the broiling heat as they stood in line awaiting the order of march.

The program itself was an inspiring one with many interesting features and telling a story of health. The parade formed in North Main street near the court house to a point north of the Baptist church, with groups of children occupying the intersecting streets.

The members of the National Guard assisted the local police in clearing the way and acted as an escort to the young paraders. Heading the procession was the "march of ignorance," about which the children danced and made merry. Other features of the pageant included a group of milk drinkers accompanying a live cow; then there were groups of Blue Bonobos, typhoid immunes, diphtheria immunes, etc.

At the end of the procession came the queen and her attendants upon a beautiful float. The queen was Ronnie Brunson, from Ogeechee county, chosen as the most nearly perfect specimen of health from all the schools of the county. At her right on the float stood Allene Gay, of Portals school, who was second choice in the contest. With them were a number of other high-ranking contestants from other schools.

At the high school grounds the exercises were conducted while thousands of spectators stood and looked on. The event closed with the winding of four May poles by the children of different schools. Guy Wells, Jr., was herald and rode a handsome steed near the head of the procession. Prizes were awarded as follows: Best essay on malaria, cash prize of $2.50 each.

Thin, Pale, Weak

"I HAD been on a bad spell of sickness which left me very weak," says Mary Spruce, of Statesboro, Ga. "I was pale and felt lifeless, and my strength did not return."

"I spent most of my time on the bed. I was very nervous, and the least thing upset me. I did not have strength enough to lift a broom. At times I would have had headaches, which would hurt me until I could hardly see."

"Someone asked me why I did not try Cardui. I had read of it, so I thought I would see what it would do for me. It was really remarkable how I came out. My strength was restored, and my health was better than it had been in years. I gained in weight about ten pounds. My color came back, and I ceased to suffer from headaches. I have told my friends about Cardui because I was benefited after taking it."

GENERAL PARKER RADIOS MESSAGE

SPEAKS TO PEOPLE ON THE IMPORTANCE OF THE NATIONAL GUARD.

Readers of the Times will be interested in the message of Adjutant General Homer C. Parker, a Statesboro man, which was broadcast on Wednesday evening of last week over station WGST, addressed to the people of Georgia.

The message in full follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is a pleasure and a privilege to me to speak to you for a very few minutes as a representative of the Georgia National Guard, consisting of 263 officers, 3 warrant officers and 3,509 enlisted men.

In my opinion, the people of Georgia do not appreciate the National Guard of the state as they should. I do not believe that you realize the value to the state of the Guard, either as a military force or as a body of worthy citizens. The personnel of the Guard is of the highest standard. The officers are selected from among our best citizens and represent every vocation in life. The enlisted men are also carefully chosen and there are no "crummy" soldiers in any of our organizations.

The Georgia Guard has one major general, who is a regular army officer with the rank of colonel. The two brigadier generals are both lawyers of considerable reputation and experience. There are many other lawyers in the Guard, including the speaker, who has tried to make a living practicing law for the past twenty-two years. Others of us are preachers, doctors, dentists, school teachers, newspaper men, insurance men, railroad men, merchants, agriculturists, civil engineers, hotel men, financiers, and federal, state, county and municipal officers.

When we take into consideration the fact that the state does not pay any one of these officers a single penny, with the exception of the adjutant general and the state quartermaster, it is amazing to note how successful we have been in maintaining the high standards for our officer personnel. Although the state of Georgia appropriates for the maintenance of its National Guard less money per capita than any other state in the Union, we are of the opinion that our Guard is not excelled by that of any other state.

The state has never expended a single dime for armories but is satisfied to appropriate to its 85 or more military organizations the small sum of $20,000 per annum. In addition to this appropriation, a similar amount is appropriated for the maintenance of the military department. If it were not for the financial support of the federal government, the Georgia National Guard could not possibly exist. While the state is spending a total of $40,000 on its military establishment, the federal government is spending more than $40,000. The state or Pennsylvania, for instance, spent more money in 1929 in building armories for the organizations of its Guard than the state of Georgia has expended for all military purposes in its entire history.

These conditions can not be due to the fact that the people of Georgia are not patriotic. Our traditions and history prove conclusively that our people have never been lacking in this virtue. We have in Georgia some of the most ancient and honorable military organizations in existence. At the Sequi-Centennial celebration held in Philadelphia a few years ago, the state of Georgia had five of these ancient organizations in the parade. "The Irish Jasper Greens," one of the Savannah organizations, (Battery E of the 118th Field Artillery), led the parade because of the oldest organization in the United States. The five organizations from Georgia were all included among the first eight in the parade. Our military history dates back to the time when General Oglethorpe first landed at Savannah and founded Georgia, one of the original thirteen colonies.

I believe I could render no greater service to the state of Georgia than to assist my co-laborers in the military service in arousing the people of the state and causing them to become more interested in their citizen-soldiers. The men upon whom you depend for protection in time of the emergency and upon whose shoulders falls the responsibility in case of riots, rebellions and disasters, deserve more consideration at your hands. Our state is not poorer strikers by any means and we do not subscribe to the doctrine that Georgia is less able to support its military establishment than are other states of the Union, especially those adjoining us on all sides.

From time to time these National Guard programs will be broadcast.

from this station by representatives of the National Guard. We hope that in addition to making you acquainted with the Guard that we can cause you to become interested in it and willing to speak kind words for it. We can furnish many speakers of note who have distinguished themselves as orators, and at the same time confine our selections to our own personnel. I thank you and good night.

Stilson High School Goes Over The Top

On last Monday evening at 8 o'clock there was a mass meeting held in the Stilson High School auditorium for the purpose of keeping the school from going into debt in completing the nine month term of school this year.

From the size of the crowd one would have thought that the community had gathered for an entertainment. The big auditorium was almost full, not of young people of the community but of the citizens of the district, men and women, who pledged themselves to support the school for their children. This they did with cash, postdated checks, notes and short-time subscriptions. We are asking the Bulloch Times to give us space not only for the account of this meeting, but for the list of names of the citizens who have subscribed to this fund. The smallest amount thus far subscribed is $5, and the largest $30, but we will scale the top with the subscriptions which continue to come in and the Bulloch Times will carry other names next week of friends who were not present at the meeting but who expect to subscribe generously. The amount raised is nearing the $800-mark.

Stilson school is in good financial condition and it seems that with this kind of support and with this class of citizenship the school will probably be for all time an example of standard high school excellence. The state and county officials are truly proud.

of this splendid school and state officials speak of it in distant counties as an outstanding institution.

Following is the present list of contributors to the school fund:

J. E. Brannen, R. H. Cone, Mrs. J. E. Brown, C. G. Peebles, P. S. Richardson, D. L. Deal, J. E. Atkins, M. P. Martin, A. B. Burnard, L. E. Brown, Mrs. D. L. Deal, W. A. Naval Stores Men Make Good Progress

A stabilization plan that will be genuinely applicable to the needs of gum turpentine producers is the aim of the American Turpentine Farmers Association. Experts of the association have been studying a tentative plan submitted by Julian Lanier, well known co-operative economist and executive of the association, and expect within the next week to complete a workable program for submission to members of the organization.

Approximately one hundred thousand units of production have entered the association since its formation. This does not include the initial production pledged by the organization group, composed of twenty-one leading producers in Georgia and Florida. Several thousand additional units entered the association in the course of two weeks, as a result of meetings held in Georgia and Florida centers. Nineteen local units of the association have been formed, and additional organizations will be formed in the next month.

Officers of the association stated today that the organization had made greater progress than originally anticipated. It was hoped to have a quarter million units of production signed by mid-June, in order to make good pledges to operators. This goal they assert will probably be passed by the end of May.

Representatives of the association stated that the stabilization program would be carefully worked out before its submission to the operators, and while not proposed as a panacea for all the ills of the industry, it promised to correct the more palpable faults in distribution, while assuring consumers of a stable supply of the raw product.

Professor Waugh Visits Georgia

Professor Frank A. Waugh, of the Massachusetts College of Agriculture, has completed his visit to the Georgia State College of Agriculture. Arriving on Sunday, April 6, his first lecture on the formal garden was delivered on the Conner Hall auditorium as per schedule on Monday afternoon. On Tuesday afternoon the natural style and what it means was discussed. On the following afternoon he lectured on the design of the American home grounds, the landscape background, and ended the series with a lantern slide review on Friday.

These lectures were exceptionally well attended. Besides students of the College of Agriculture interested in landscaping and art, there was quite a delegation from the Georgia State Teacher's College who took advantage of this especially fine opportunity to hear one of the outstanding landscape gardeners of the nation. Athens was well represented by a large number of ladies of the Garden Club from the city. A large number came in from adjoining towns and cities for one or more lectures, and all of them were well repaid for the trips they made.

On Thursday evening at eight o'clock, Professor Waugh gave a special address on times and fashions in gardening to the ladies of the Garden Club of Athens, the Art Club of Athens, and the ladies of the college and university faculty. This lecture was delivered in Memorial Hall and was most interesting and beautifully attractive.

It is a pity that a larger number of the people interested in gardening were not able to attend this series of lectures. The Massachusetts College of Agriculture is particularly fortunate in having on its staff a man of Professor Waugh's prominence, and we feel that Georgia was fortunate in having him with us. His visit has been an outstanding event in the landscaping interests of the state. The resume of some of the lectures is as follows:

Lecture I—Formal Gardening
The American people are rather prejudiced against formal gardens because of democratic tendencies that make them willing to share the beauties of the garden with every passer-by, and because of the idea that the formal garden is unattainable except by the wealthy.

Yet nothing is more common. The average street with its straight lines bordered by lots of uniform size houses parallel to the street, the central walk from door, the balanced plantings—all are formal in arrangement. The qualities wanted in the formal style are simplicity and orderliness. Small areas are best suited to formal use. Rather than being foreign to nature, nature abounds in examples of symmetry. Water, with the backbone the main axis, is laterally symmetrical, arms, legs, eyes, ears, in pairs, balanced. It is from this that makes objects recognizable to the individual.

Since the average lot is small, the garden must be. The form most pleasing is a rectangle having a proportion of five to seven, or five to eight; the squares and narrow strips are not to be excluded from consideration. The formal garden should be level and should be completely and adequately enclosed, either by a wall, a trellis, or a hedge. The major axis is the backbone of the garden and divides it equally. The minor axis crosses it at right angles and may, or may not bisect the major axis. When walks define the axes they should be subordinated to the harmonizing with the garden. However, walks are not necessary. A pool with its reflections is most pleasing, or a panel or turf with a marginal walk, flower border, makes the axis less obvious.

Axes exist in the mind and are fixed by termini without a connecting walk or path. Features terminating the main axis are much more important than those of minor axes. They should be in keeping with the size of the garden and proportions are decided by taste and experience. One point is always to be observed; terminal features should terminate the axes. Nothing should intervene to detract from the point of focal interest. All architectural features should be simple, classical, not rustic nor freakish.

The radical garden may be square or round. There is a comfortable feeling about it because many of the flowers are radically symmetrical, and so with its beds of color it reminds one of the flowers. The radical garden is smaller than the rectangular garden; the principal feature is in the center; the walks have parallel edges and their termini are features of minor importance.

Baptist Young People To Meet at Gainesville

(By GAINER E. BRYAN, Publicity Director.)

Macon, Ga., May 4.—The annual Georgia Baptist Young People's Union convention and encampment, at Riverside Academy, near Gainesville, Ga., June 21st to 28th, is expected to attract hundreds of choice young people this year from the scores of junior, intermediate, senior and adult unions from every association and section of Georgia, according to Edwin S. This year's program carries a brilliant array of teachers and speakers from all over the south, as follows: Dr. John L. Hill, editorial secretary of Baptist Sunday School Board, Nashville, Tenn. Constipation Troubles

"I have used Black-Draught as a family medicine for a good many years," says Mrs. Sallie Langrum, of Hunkle, N. C. "I have found it an excellent remedy for constipation and the troubles that follow it. I have suffered frequently from gas pains, and when I am bothered that way I begin at once to take Black-Draught. Relief follows quickly."

"I give Black-Draught to the children when they are constipated, and it is not long until they are running around again."

Thousands of others have reported good results from the use of this purely vegetable medicine. Insist on the genuine Black-Draught.

Local Dealer Advises Change of Spark Plugs

"This is the time of year when car owners should be checking up on their spark plugs," says D. Percy Averitt, local dealer in Champion spark plugs. "Winter driving conditions impose extra strains on all parts of an automobile engine and spark plugs especially have been forced to carry a heavy burden in the last few months. Even those that were new last summer or fall are not doing as well as they might and drivers are consequently not getting the snap and power out of their motors they should enjoy. Plugs a year old ought to be changed in any case. They have done all that should be expected of them in a modern gasoline engine."

"After a year of plugs have delivered 10,000 miles they are always coated with oil and their electrodes are apt to be pitted, so they don't spark well any more. That means incomplete combustion of gasoline and wasted fuel, besides unsatisfactory performance of the motor. The car owner has the right kind of plug. It is sluggish and generally out of sorts."

"A new set of spark plugs is the best sort of spring tonic for the motor. Experience of drivers and thousands of tests by engineers have shown that it is really economical to install new spark plugs at least once every driving season, and that the spring is the best time to make the change. What the new plugs will save during the year they are in service will more than cover their cost. Engineers of the Champion Spark Plug Company advise this as the best time to make the change."

Announce this fact, and the annual Champion National Change Week was inaugurated as a result. Since its first observation millions of motorists have learned the wisdom of periodic spark plug changing, and now make a regular practice of installing new sets when Change Week comes around. The date set for Change Week this year is May 5th to 11th."

REFERTILIZATION OF TOBACCO CROP
RECENT HEAVY RAINS MAY HAVE CAUSED SOME TO LEACH OUT SOIL.
(By J. M. PURDOM, Assistant Agricultural and Industrial Agent, A. C. L. Rwy.)
The heavy rains of this year have raised the question of whether or not tobacco should be refertilized. Just how much of the soluble fertilizer materials are leached out of the soil by rains is a question about which there is a wide difference of opinion. My own opinion is that where fertilizer has been properly bedded the loss by leaching during the short time before the crop begins to grow is in most cases practically negligible. However, the amount of loss will vary with the texture and elevation of the soil. That is to say, more loss may be expected in a heavy sandy soil through which the water can drain freely than in a heavier or lower lying soil.
However, I want to explain that my opinion is not based on accurate studies, but only on observation of plant response to fertilization under different weather conditions. To illustrate: In the spring of 1925 we had some heavy rains, and a great many people had put their fertilizer out before the rains. After the rains had been leached out, I very nearly ruined my crop by doing so. To be perfectly fair though, there were some who did refertilize in 1925 and made excellent crops, which they attributed to the refertilization. But

Prolific Cotton Forming Squares
A stalk of cotton more than twelve inches in height was presented at the Times office this morning as a specimen of the crop of sixty acres on the farm of Flanders Smith, near Port St. Andrew. The sample stalk had four well formed squares and the healthy condition bears evidence, as Mr. Smith said, that his crop is doing well. Mr. Smith farms on the E. T. Denmark place and is a good farmer.

GEORGE SPONSORS ILLITERACY FIGHT
BILL ASKING FOR FUND OF $1,000,000 OFFERED WITH ASSISTANCE OF BRATTON.
Washington, May 12.—At the request of Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, now absent on a visit to the state, Senator Bratton, of New Mexico, Wednesday laid before the upper chamber a bill designed to extend federal aid to the several states in their efforts to eliminate illiteracy.
Under the terms of the measure congress would approve a program for the appropriation of $1,000,000 a year for a period of five years, the funds to be administered entirely by state educational authorities in illiteracy eradication campaigns. No requirement is made that the individual states match the funds dollar for dollar as provided in the federal aid highway funds. The appropriation will be apportioned on the basis of statistics showing the number of illiterates in each state; that is to say, a state with a large number of illiterates would receive a proportionate share of the funds.
The bill was prepared in co-operation with the American Federation of Teachers. It also has the endorsement of the department of state education of the National Education Association. A number of social and patriotic organizations are also working to help eradicate illiteracy.
Since the draft during war-time, revealed the alarming large number of illiterates in the country, Senator George has interested himself in the work which the state governments have undertaken to combat this condition. The interest of the federal government has been enlisted but so far no money has been appropriated by congress to enable it to carry on the work.
In a message to Senator Bratton, Senator George said: "It seems to me not only just but absolutely essential that the money for the conduct of this campaign should come from public sources and not from individuals, corporations or through any other means. This money is at present obligated, splendid though the intent of the donors may be. Inasmuch as our government depends upon the functional interest of an enlightened electorate it is our government which must provide the money. Citizens, who at present, are practically illiterate, on the road to becoming good citizens."

FINDS NEW REASON FOR CRIME GROWTH
SAYS TOBACCO AND COFFEE ARE AMONG THE GREATEST CAUSES OF CRIME.
New Haven, Conn., May 12.—Automobiles and divorces, coffee and tobacco are contributing factors causing an increase in crime, according to Prof. Roland M. Harper, of the University of Georgia, in the Eugenics Magazine, released today.
Professor Harper made a study of social trends of Prince Edward Island, Canada, and contrasted them with those in the United States.
He found little crime and almost no divorce in Prince Edward Island, but a great simplicity of life. He said: "Our present crime wave and high and rapidly increasing divorce rate are probably due in large measure to too much pleasure-seeking and indulgence in luxuries, although of course the problem is a complex one."
"In the matter of automobiles, there seems to be a fairly close correlation between them and divorce. In the course of a year it costs about as much to own and operate an automobile as to feed, clothe and educate a child; so an automobile used mainly for pleasure generally means one child less in the family and smaller families mean more divorces."
"In this country the average per capita consumption of tobacco increased from about six pounds in 1900 to nine in 1920. Nearly every smoker drinks coffee, and the per capita consumption of coffee and sugar have both increased about 50 per cent in the last 30 years."
"All this is probably partly responsible for the increase of crime and divorce, although perhaps few smokers would conclude that. Some very estimable gentlemen, indeed, use tobacco, but at the same time it can hardly be disputed that the great majority of criminals also do."

Former Bulloch Citizen Dies in Valdosta
T. J. Manson, 61 years of age, a prominent business man of Chattahoochee, Tenn., died at a Valdosta hospital last Friday from a complication of troubles, following a long period of illness.

Several years ago Mr. Manson visited J. E. McCroan, his cousin, for about two weeks, during which time he returned to Excelsior and met several of his old schoolmates, among them being Mr. C. M. Cummings and Mr. E. D. Holland. To his associates he was known as Tim Manson.

SAVANNAH BUNCH VISIT STATESBORO
JUNIOR CHAMBER COMMERCE IS SPONSOR FOR PROGRAM OF GOOD WILL VISITING.
Statesboro was raided Monday afternoon by a bunch of Savannah enthusiasts. It was the most pleasant raid when the hundred or more Savannahians came swarming into the city.
Hundreds of Statesboro people met the raiders, not to repel them but to extend a welcome. The combat was a personal rather than a physical one. Billy Smith, of Statesboro, and Billy Smith, of Savannah, had the time of his life. He's always happy when he has an opportunity to talk, and he talked well that afternoon. Dan Bickers, of the Savannah Morning News, likewise had a good time. Writing back a personal letter after his return, he said: "Please say in your paper that the Savannah party wishes the Statesboro and Bulloch folk to know we APPRECIATED their especially cordial hospitality. They 'got us'—the idea backing our trip, which was not at all anything, but the chance to get and keep and work and put together for the whole southeast section."
In the Tuesday issue of the Morning News there was this reference to the reception in Statesboro:
The party, still traveling late, arrived in Statesboro about 4:30 o'clock, was enthusiastically greeted by scores of citizens and after more music from the band was directed to the assembly hall of the chamber of commerce at which place an hour was spent in a most interesting and profitable discussion of the problems of the chamber of commerce and the problems of the chamber of commerce and the problems of the chamber of commerce.

RED CROSS NURSE IN LAST ROUND UP
SUMMER ROUND UP TO BE AT COURT HOUSE ON WEDNESDAY OF NEXT WEEK.
The need of children being in the right physical condition upon entering school is being realized more and more by school authorities and parent-teacher associations throughout the country. For this reason an effort is being made to have all children who will enter school this coming year examined and vaccinated now.
A round-up for these children will be held Wednesday, May 21st, at the court house, this being the last day of the work by the county health nurse for this year.
All children will be given the examination which will be given in school but will be done by physicians and dentists at this time. Also will all be vaccinated against smallpox, which will save a great deal of inconvenience in September. All children who are to enter school any time before the coming year should be brought in now. Wednesday and examined and vaccinated. The arms will then be healed and parents can give them better care if done while the children are kept at home.
It will help a great deal if the names of the children now in school in this week to the teachers or to the county superintendent's office in the court house.
This work will be open to the children of the country whose parents wish to take advantage of this opportunity as well as those who will be in school in September. The names of the children now in school in this week to the teachers or to the county superintendent's office in the court house.
Vaccination is required by state law and should be attended to in summer. It is compulsory in the city schools, therefore parents will not only save inconvenience for themselves but will save school time by bringing their children in this class. The hours will be 9 to 11 a. m.; 12 to 1 p. m.; 2 to 3 p. m., and 4 to 5 p. m.
In sending in name, state hour you will come.
The summer round-up of children for school is important. It is important in the fall are requested to be brought in for examination and vaccination against smallpox. It is important to do this before school opens. No child can enter school in the fall without vaccination in Statesboro, and none in the high school auditorium. They bear in mind this opportunity is open to children in the country as well as in the city.

CHOCOLATE DROPS COMING TOMORROW

The first part portrays the true Southern spirit that once existed throughout Dixie, with Mandy Lee, the black mammy, realizing that Rose Adair, her "white child," is no longer her "white baby." SENIOR STUDENTS HAVE STUNT NIGHT PROGRAM OF FROLIC AND SONG PLEASES BIG AUDIENCE AT HIGH SCHOOL.
Members of the graduating class of the High School presented a most delightful entertainment in their stunt night program last Friday evening which was witnessed by a packed house. Not only were all the seats filled, but many chairs were occupied in the aisles, while still others stood. The program was somewhat different from the stereotyped affair so frequently staged by high school students. The diversity included some quite clever playing, besides singing and dancing and black face comedy. Particularly well presented were the musical skits. One of these was put on by a group of boys, one of whose number played a guitar while the group sang a number of spirited hits. They played with good and the singing was refreshing.
Perhaps the most pleasing feature of the entire program was the presentation of "The Old Oaken Bucket," a musical drama in which M. Y. Hendrix and Geraldine Rushing played the leading roles. They were supported by a pleasing mixed chorus, consisting of Mildred Webb, Melvin Robinson, Meta Pace, Jim Cason, Eubie Brannen, Earl Riggs, Grace Hodges, Cohen Anderson and Stanley Waters.
Another rather unique presentation was the musical comedy, "Two Little Girls in Blue," sung by Stanley Waters, with Misses Constance Cone and Frances Parker posing. The quadrille of girls in blue was quite pleasing, and wound up with a bluesque which was a fitting climax.
The final presentation was a pageant, "Girls of America," in which the characters were: Indian, Ruth Peck, Puritan, Lorie Mallard; Colonial, Sarah Lou Hodges; Yankee girl of '61, Ruby Lee Jones; Dixie girl of '61, Martha Kate Anderson; School girl of today, Julia Sudarth; Western girl, Penny Ann Mallard; Home girl, Delia College girl, Josephine Murphy; Khaki girl, Marjorie Moore; Red Cross girl, Mary Crouse; Bride, Mary Lind Mooney; Flower girl, Dorothy Remington, Estelle Peebles.
